

This Boru Naitang Tree tourist attraction is a historical warning that should not be repeated about the forbidden marriage of brother and sister (twins). Brother and sister are different individuals, but they will always be connected because they come from the same womb.

The Boru Naitang Tree tourist attraction in Pangururan District, Samosir Regency, is historical evidence that Naitang was sentenced to death by drowning in Lake Toba. The closeness of a sibling relationship is like hands and feet, so it is forbidden to love each other.
