

This place has a spiritual value, often visited by Batak tribes who come from outside the area to get aek (water) and perform cultural rituals.

This tourist attraction, born from the folklore of Boru Naitang Tree , is a cultural expression of the people of Pangururan District, Samosir Regency. This tourist attraction can be called home because of the existence of brothers and sisters who should be the best and live happily.

This place has become a symbol of folklore about Boru Naitang Tree, one of the elements of regional culture that is very important to be preserved so that it always becomes a cultural expression for the Batak people in Pangururan District, Samosir Regency.

A man with dark hair, wearing a yellow vest over a dark long-sleeved shirt and a brown cape, stands with his hands on his hips. He is looking towards a large, grey, fluted pillar with a blue capital. The background features a blue sky, a green hill, and a body of water. A small white house with a red roof is visible in the distance. A speech bubble originates from the man's head.

The Brother and sister relationship is the best. No dishonesty, no breakup, and no heartbreak. On the contrary, effective caring, extraordinary love, and excessive loyalty.