

Huta Raja Village is known as a traditional Toba Batak settlement with the Ulos Woven Craft Community, and in this village, there are still several Gorga Batak Traditional Houses. In the past, Huta Raja Village was the residence of King Simarmata. This village is a place for making ulos cloth in Lumban Suhi-Suhi Village.

The Huta Raja settlement is preserved and reorganized in the hope that it can become one of the best tourist destinations around Lake Toba in supporting the government's tourism development program. The existence of the Ulos Woven Crafts Community became the primary basis for the formation of the Huta Raja Village settlement so that it was able to attract the attention of the central government to be developed into a tourist settlement.

I support this ulos weaving activity. This business must be advanced, successful, and sustainable.

The Indonesian government program established a community of ulos weavers in the village of Huta Raja to maintain the existence of weavers. This community is a space to accommodate the works and talents of ulos weavers. The reason for forming this community is that many weaving artisans live in Lumban Suhi-Suhi Village. The activities of the ulos community in Huta Raja are an effort to maintain weaving activities to produce a generation of ulos weavers sustainably.
